Volunteering is Always on the AH To-do List

Local firm takes no breaks during the summer from serving its community

MOUNT LAUREL, N.J. – June 21, 2017-- School may be out, vacations may have started but AH never takes a break from volunteering. From raising awareness to raising money, this professional services firm does whatever it can to support its community.

“AH believes in paying it forward, both in and out of the office,” said AH President and CEO, Bob Waller, Jr., CAE. “We regularly ask for suggestions from staff to rotate the organizations we support and also provide all staff members paid hours for volunteer work during the business day. Since our company was established, social responsibility has always been one of our Core Values.”

The AH Social Responsibility Committee, an employee-driven committee supported by AH leadership, dedicates over 200 hours to local non-profits annually. AH defines corporate social responsibility as the continuing commitment to contribute positively to the communities that support it. This extends to the workforce, their families, the local community, and society at large. AH staff accomplishes this by adhering to its core values to always act ethically, with integrity and with unlimited resolve in everything that they do.

In the month of June alone, AH has engaged with the following campaigns and organizations both in its surrounding community and on a national level.

June 26 – Staff will participate in summer cleaning inside and out at the Bancroft School, landscaping and cleaning the inside of the home.

June 7 – AH hosted its annual Alex’s Lemonade Stand, raising over $900 for the foundation. AH has incorporated Alex’s Lemonade Stand into its annual outreach efforts after some of its own staff members were directly affected by childhood cancer.

June 3 – AH participated in the #WearOrange Against Gun Violence Campaign, wearing orange to support the need for greater advocacy toward the ongoing epidemic of gun violence.
